The comptroller, who was accordingly asked, states that the circular alluded to refers only to contingent charges common to all officers, and does not deal with ~~the~~ 'Supplies and Services' which are special contingent charges peculiar to the departments, which incur them. The same details are given in the Civil Budget Estimates and should be entered in the contingent Register and also in the detailed contingent bills. If the headings contained in the circular are found wanting, permission may be obtained by the head of the department from the Comptroller to have any new head opened or to include the charges in any other head already prescribed. The Comptroller adds that detailed instructions for the maintenance of contingent Register and for the preparation of separate bills when the charges appertain to more than one major head of account as also for the preparation of monthly detailed contingent bills are given in articles 80, 85, & 88 of the Civil Account Code Vol I; and that no further instructions in the matter

which are Special Contingent charges peculiar to the departments, which incur them. The same details are given in the Civil Budget Estimates and should be entered in the Contingent Register, and also in the detailed Contingent Bills. If the heading prescribed by the circular are found insufficient for booking any other recurring charges of a Contingent nature, necessary permission should be obtained by the Head of the office concerned from the Comptroller's office either to have such new heads opened or for including the charges in any of the heads already prescribed.

Detailed instructions for the maintenance of Contingent Registers and for the preparation of separate bills when the charges appertain to more than one major head of account as also for the preparation of monthly detailed Contingent bills, are given in chapter 6. articles 80, 85, & 88 of the Civil Account Code Volume I, 6th Edition, and no further instructions in the matter seem to me to be necessary.
